Mr. Jay Stanley provided information regarding an outsourcing partnership with Barnes & Noble College to provide textbooks at the College. Mr. Stanley provided the proposal that included two options available through Barnes & Noble College. Option 1: First Day® Complete Implementation and Option 2: Alternative Virtual Bookstore Model.
The First Day® Complete option means that students would have their textbooks on the first day of class with a minimum of $24 dollars per credit hour. According to the proposal, the College can decide the final per credit hour fee to the student depending on the institution’s goals. For example, if this service is offered to the student at $24 per credit hour, there would be no commission return to Bladen Community College, but students would realize maximum savings. Anything above $24 per credit hour would provide a financial return to the College. Mr. Stanley also reported that Barnes & Noble College is willing to provide a capital investment up to $40,000 to the College to renovate the College bookstore. In addition, Barnes & Noble College would implement a state-of-the-art operating system. Mr. Stanley stated that this is dependent upon the College committing to a five-year contract with the company.

Mr. Stanley also provided information regarding the Alternative Virtual Bookstore Model. This model would provide a virtual bookstore solution to meet the course material needs of students and faculty. Under this model, on an annualized basis, Barnes & Noble College would pay Bladen Community College the following calculated commission on 10% of all new and used course material net sales, 10% of all rental course material net sales and 2% of all digital course material net sales. With this model, Mr. Stanley explained, Barnes & Noble College would provide a one-time $10,000 signing bonus to be used at the discretion of Bladen Community College.

Discussion followed regarding the plans. Barnes & Noble College currently operates in over 25 institutions in North Carolina. Mr. Petteway asked that students be involved in the discussion regarding the new bookstore approach. More research will be done before a decision is made and the final decision will be brought before the Board before it is implemented.
